“The best part is that we are equipped with many tools and resources to be successful. What distinguishes this program is that we have a national group of students to work with, full time advisors at headquarters, professional trainings, and formal guidelines. This is a huge experience, not an ordinary college club.”

—CRS Student Ambassador Program Participant
BE A LEADER.

TAKE ACTION ON YOUR CAMPUS TO FIGHT GLOBAL POVERTY.
migration, global hunger, human trafficking, climate change.

These issues disproportionately affect people living in poverty. College students in the United States can join with CRS to fight injustice and diminish poverty. Through the CRS Student Ambassador Program students are invited to take responsibility, and to embrace the opportunity to be part of the solution. Through personal and collective action, we can transform our campuses and the world.

CRS STUDENT AMBASSADORS ARE COLLEGE AND UNIVERSITY STUDENTS WHO:

- Learn about the root causes of global poverty and injustice.
- Develop leadership skills and use them to take action.
- Organize and educate others through solidarity vigils, CRS Ethical Trade sales, advocacy, and more.
- Connect faith to action, and make a difference on campus and around the world.
- Participate in a national network that remains connected to CRS through college and beyond.

HOW TO GET STARTED:

- Learn about the CRS Student Ambassador program.
- Identify a Staff Advisor—consider campus ministry, center for service, Newman Center or other source of support.
- Invite others—consider peers who are already passionate about social justice and the mission of CRS.
- Attend training.
- Explore campaigns and other resources on university.crs.org
- Host at least three activities on campus per year.
- Report your campus engagement to CRS.
- Network with other campuses regionally and nationally.
- Stay up-to-date via our email list & text alerts.

TRAINING OPPORTUNITIES

Dive into global issues and support CRS’ work overseas, learn how to organize prayer, education and action using CRS resources, and connect with leaders at other universities.

Photo by Rebekah O’Donnell, CRS Student Ambassador